February 2012

Ah, the month of "love".

The Beatles sang, "All you need is love, love, love is all you need."

Often, the women that come to us feel anything but loved. Whether from their own making or their inability to see that others love them or to love themselves, they often feel hopeless and empty. At Bethany Hall, they are encouraged to "let others love them until they can love themselves." This is sometimes a difficult process for them, but eventually they come to believe, and actually love themselves. This is a beautiful process to watch.

Perhaps the Beatles were onto something.....
